Practice Doctorate Standards Development Process

Beginning in 2010, the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) and partner organizations formed committees and taskforces to explore accreditation of practice doctorate programs. In 2017, members of the CSWE Board of Accreditation (BOA) and Commission on Educational Policy (COEP) formed a joint committee to develop pilot accreditation standards for practice doctorate programs. After years of collaboration the joint committee released multiple drafts for public review and comment, and considered feedback from all stakeholder groups, including the Practice Doctorate Program Expert Panel. The intent of the BOA and the COEP was to solicit feedback from as many constituents as possible through both in-person and online avenues. The BOA and the COEP thank the programs, individuals, organizations, and communities of interest that provided feedback on the drafts, resulting in this inaugural set of accreditation standards for practice doctorate social work programs.

About the 2025 Accreditation Standards for Practice Doctorate Social Work Programs Document

The 2025 Accreditation Standards for Practice Social Work Doctorate Programs document describes five features, which specify the requirements used to develop and maintain an accredited social work program at the practice doctorate level:

1. Program mission
2. Anti-racism, diversity, equity, and inclusion
3. Explicit curriculum
4. Implicit curriculum
5. Assessment

Each accreditation standard is preceded by a number that corresponds with the applicable feature, followed by the text of the standard. Compliance statements used in accreditation reviews are located underneath each accreditation standard. Viewed together, the accreditation standard and compliance statements provide an indication of whether the standard has been met. The compliance statements are considered by the BOA in determining whether the social work program meets each accreditation standard.

About Practice Doctorate Social Work Programs

Practice doctorate programs in social work are highly innovative, and the accreditation process and standards ensure these programs can differ in their goals, curricula, and core expertise and skills of their graduates. Thus, these standards recognize diverse approaches for the accreditation of practice doctorate programs that encompasses the broad scope of social work practice at the doctoral level as well as the required components for a quality practice doctorate program. The key features of accreditation standards for social work practice doctorate programs, as described below, provide a framework for the institutions currently operating or developing such programs. The accreditation standards focus on five features of program design: program mission; integration of anti-racism, diversity, equity, and inclusion; explicit curriculum; implicit curriculum; and assessment of student and program outcomes.

Definition

Social work practice doctorate programs prepare practitioner-scholars to advance practice and innovate at the micro, mezzo, and/or macro levels as well as in higher education and/or professional leadership.

Scope

Practice doctorate programs educate master's-level social work practitioners who are graduates of CSWE-accredited programs¹ as practitioner-scholars who will use and evaluate research-informed practice critically to translate and innovate social work practice; engage in systematic inquiry; and apply and disseminate research-informed knowledge, values, ethics, and skills in social work through practice, professional leadership, and/or teaching.

Core Expertise and Skills

Practice doctorate programs, inclusive of all area(s) of focus, prepare practitioner-scholars to:

1. advance practice through innovative approaches;
2. use and critically evaluate research and knowledge;
3. engage in scientific inquiry that reflects doctoral-level scholarship;
4. develop and disseminate practice-relevant, research-informed knowledge through a variety of channels, such as teaching, scholarship, professional presentations, mentoring, and administration;
5. provide leadership in social work practice and/or education; and
6. develop and maintain substantive expertise in one or more areas of social work practice.

¹ This, and all future references to degrees from social work programs accredited by CSWE, includes degrees from CSWE-accredited programs, those recognized through CSWE's International Social Work Degree Recognition and Evaluation Service, or those covered under a memorandum of understanding with international social work accreditors.

Accreditation Standards

Program Mission

The program mission is informed by a commitment to student attainment of the core expertise and skills. It is grounded in the profession's purpose, the core values of the social work profession, and informed by the program's context.

Purpose

The purpose of the social work profession is to promote human, community, organizational, and societal well-being. Guided by a person-in-environment framework, a global perspective, respect for human diversity, and knowledge based on scientific inquiry and other ways of knowing, the purpose of social work is actualized through its quest for social, racial, economic, and environmental justice; the creation of conditions that facilitate the realization of human rights; the elimination of poverty; and the enhancement of life for all people in their environments, locally and globally.

Values

Service, social justice, the dignity and worth of the person, the importance of human relationships, integrity, competence, human rights, and scientific inquiry are among the core values of social work. These values, along with an anti-racist and anti-oppressive perspective, underpin the explicit and implicit curriculum and frame the profession's commitment to respect all people and the quest for social, racial, economic, and environmental justice.

Program Context

Program context encompasses the needs and opportunities of practice communities, which are informed by their historical, political, economic, environmental, social, cultural, demographic, institutional, local, regional, and global contexts and by the ways they elect to engage these factors. Additional factors include new knowledge, technology, and ideas that may have a bearing on contemporary and future social work education, practice, and research.

Accreditation Standard D1.0.1: The program has a program-level mission statement that is consistent with the profession's purpose and values. Institutions with both a practice doctorate program and another CSWE-accredited or candidate social work program have separate mission statements for each program.

- a. The program provides the program-level mission statement.
- b. The program describes how the program's mission statement is consistent with the profession's purpose and values.
- c. The program addresses all program options.

Accreditation Standard D1.0.2: The program's mission statement is consistent with the program's context.

- a. The program describes its context, including a description of its program options.*
- b. The program describes how the program mission statement is consistent with the program's context.*
- c. The program addresses all program options.*

Anti-Racism, Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

Social work programs integrate anti-racism, diversity, equity, and inclusion (ADEI) approaches across the curriculum. Programs provide the context through which students learn about their positionality, power, privilege, and difference and develop a commitment to dismantling systems of oppression, such as racism, which affect diverse populations. Programs recognize the pervasive impact of White supremacy and privilege and prepare students to have the knowledge, awareness, and skills necessary to engage in anti-racist practice. The dimensions of diversity, equity, and inclusion are understood as the intersectionality of multiple factors including but not limited to age, caste, class, color, culture, disability and ability, ethnicity, gender, gender identity and expression, generational status, immigration status, legal status, marital status, political ideology, race, nationality, religion/spirituality, sex, sexual orientation, and tribal sovereign status. Faculty and administrators model anti-racist and anti-oppressive practice and respect for diversity and difference. Faculty and administrators also foster an equitable and inclusive learning environment by facilitating important ADEI discourse. The program's commitment to ADEI is reflected in its explicit and implicit curriculum. Together the implicit and explicit curricula are informed by the program context and learning environment. The program recognizes the important role of the learning environment in the education of program participants, especially with respect to the value and meaning of anti-racism, diversity, equity, and inclusion, and the development of cultural humility. The program has an inclusive approach to addressing the vast range of student learning needs, including intentional planning and implementation of inclusive practice and pedagogies in the explicit curriculum that reduce barriers while optimizing accessibility and equity for students. Students are responsible for their learning, collaborating with peers and colleagues, and practicing with historically and currently oppressed populations through an anti-racist lens.

Accreditation Standard D2.0.1: The program engages in specific and continuous efforts within the explicit curriculum related to anti-racism, diversity, equity, and inclusion.

- a. The program provides examples of its specific and continuous efforts within the explicit curriculum related to ADEI.*

The curriculum prepares students for substantive expertise beyond the master's level in one or more areas of social work practice. The program defines its students' academic product(s) and selects the format that best incorporates the requirements of the area(s) of focus and the institution that is awarding the degree. The academic product(s) demonstrates students' core expertise and skills and contributes to the advancement of practice.

Accreditation Standard D3.0.1: The program has at least one area of focus that prepares students for substantive expertise beyond the master's level in one or more areas of social work practice. Assessment

Assessment is an integral component of practitioner-scholar education and continuous programmatic improvement. Assessment involves the systematic gathering of data that serve as evidence of student performance through demonstration of the core expertise and skills; anti-racism, diversity, equity, inclusion (ADEI); program outcomes; and student feedback.

Assessment information is used to guide student learning, assess student outcomes, assess and improve effectiveness of the curriculum and program overall, and strengthen the assessment methods used. Given that social work practice and scholarship are complex and multidimensional, the assessment methods used by practice doctorate programs and the data collected may vary by context.

Assessment also involves gathering data about the implicit curriculum, with a particular focus on the program's efforts to foster ADEI in the student learning environment.

Data from assessment continuously inform and promote change in the explicit curriculum, the implicit curriculum, and student experience of the practice doctorate program.

Core Expertise and Skills Assessment

Accreditation Standard D5.0.1(a): The program has a systematic plan for ongoing assessment of student achievement of the core expertise and skills (and any additional core expertise and skills added by the program) for each area of focus.
